Big Booster Edition

Alpine Publishing Company to Get Out Three Big Papers—Review, Banner and Citizen—Telling of the Good Things in the North End of Utah County.

On July Fourth this paper will issue a big boosters' edition. It is the intention to make it an issue of thirty to forty pages. It will contain illustrated writeups of the industries, business projects and homes of the north end of Utah county. It is the intention to make it the best exposition of the resources and industries of this section that has ever been gotten out. It will contain just the information that you have been wanting for a long time to send away to your friends and relatives to tell them just what kind of a community it is in which you are making your home.

Our contention all along has been that there is no other locality on earth so desirable for making one's home and rearing a family, and we intend, with the help of the business people and the citizens generally, to prove it.

Commencing at the north, for instance, take Lehi with its magnificent public buildings, unexcelled water system, turnpiked streets, sugar factory and immense new projects opening, where is there a better place?

Take American Fork with its business houses, beautiful homes, lake resort and its unparalleled canyon with its most promising mining district; where is there a more desirable locality?

Pleasant Grove, the city of contented homes, is fast gaining a nation-wide reputation for its superior fruit that is being shipped out in carload lots all over the east and west. Yet this resource has hardly commenced its unfolding.

Take Alpine, nestled up there in the corner of the mountains; it is one of the prettiest little spots in the state in which to settle down and make a happy home.

Cedar Valley, too, is rapidly coming to the front and will soon be known as one of the leading "dry farm" sections in the state, to say nothing of its possibilities for the big Utah conservation project takes water to its 100,000 thirsty acres.

With the completion of the interurban through these localities, it means a greater outlet from this rich district and its wonderful resources to the state at large, and to the markets in general. Already gardening and small fruit farms are arranging for this ready market which will be found at the initial end of the new road. It is going to make living in the country districts much more desirable than heretofore. As one speaker put it, "We will have all the advantages of city life with none of its disadvantages."

In this special edition we want to hold up the mirror to the several communities so that our own people will see how fine looking they are. We intend not only to show by word of pen the progress being made, but to lavishly use the photographer's art to illustrate the many beautiful residences, business blocks, orchards, factories, fields, canyons, lake, and also by this means to introduce you to the leading citizens. In fact, we will do just what one would do if visited by a friend from a distant clime; we intend introducing our readers, present and prospective, to the best there is in the best part of the best little valley on earth.

If the people get back of this project we will probably put it on superior paper and make it an issue of 5,000 copies, so that the people may not only keep it as a souvenir, but have some to send to their outside friends.

We will probably get out this boosters' edition on Pioneer Day—July 4.

Every family should order from three to a dozen extra papers of this boosters' edition to send to friends. Price 10 cents each or three for 25 cents. How many do you want? Send in your orders early.

THE REAL FRIEND

One of the catalog houses' latest advertisements, has this attractive heading: "The Friend that Never Fails." The intimation is that their catalog is the friend. Good joke this. A friend that will never do anything for you, never render you a single little service until you plunk down good hard cash, is some friend, isn't he? If folks will send me that mazuma and tell me what they want for it, leaving me a little to compensate me for my trouble, I, too, will be a friend that never fails. On that basis, I'll be a friend to anybody and everybody. But would I be a real friend? Hardly. The man who wants pay for everything he does, and always insists on his money in advance, can scarcely be called a friend. Who is the friend that never fails? The local merchant tries to be. He gives you credit when you need it. He cheerfully adjusts all complaints. He contributes to the support of our churches and schools. He helps to beautify and uplift your community. He is your friend, sharing your joys and sorrows and always ready to lend a hand. He it is who never fails when you need him most.

Mr. Magnus Nielson, who has been very ill, is slowly recovering.

The Misses Clara and Ora Holman and Irene Aston were visitors at Pleasant Grove Third Ward Mutual Monday evening, where a beautiful program was rendered and luncheon was served. They reported having a very enjoyable time.

There was a girl in a certain house who was the very life of the family. Everyone liked her, yet she had no accomplishments which could be commended to any extent. She could not sing without getting out of tune; she could not play the piano; she neither painted in water-colors nor found pleasure in embroidery. Indeed, if you ran through the whole list of ordinary accomplishments of young ladyhood you would not mention the one in which she excelled. Yet she had earned the delightful name of Miss Sunshin. Just because she wore a pleasant face, just because she cared for the thoughts, cares, pleasures, feeling of others, and had a hearty desire within her to render help to all in trouble. And shall it not be said that, after all, she had the greatest accomplishment of all—the happy knack of giving others pleasure? Shall it not be said that her kindly actions were the means of bringing added joy and blessing to her.

"CLEAN UP AND PAINT UP"

By Rev. A. E. Stockdale.

Do you find a bit of dust?
Clean it up! Clean it up!
Do you see a blight of rust?
Rub it up! Rub it up!
If the paint is getting old,
new and fresh is being sold,
for the town has now been told
in a slogan clear and bold that surely, surely must
Clean it up—Paint it up.

Are some buildings on the blink?
Clean 'em up—Paint 'em up!
Are the sproutings in a kink?
Slick 'em up—Spic 'em up!
Are the ashes in a heap?
So the pavings need a sweep?
Is the lawn the kind to keep?
If you really want to sleep
with a resty, easy wink,
Clean 'em up—Paint 'em up!

Are the window glasses gray?
Wash 'em up—Wash 'em up!
Has the rubbish gone astray?
Burn it up—Burn it up!
Buy a little spade and rake,
Give the muscles an a shake,
For the lawn and garden's sake,
Never mind the pain and ache,
and our town will in a day
be cleaned up to stay.

A man has a right to expect a square deal in a trade—and so has the weaker fellow.

If the world owes every man a living, the millionaires must be preferred creditors.

Government Abstracts

Before you can know that your title is clear you must single out from the public records all transfers affecting your property. In Utah County there are over 150,000 of these instruments. Records affecting land titles are kept in the offices of the County Clerk, the County Treasurer and the County Recorder.

To go in person to these offices and search your title would be, to the average man, a hopeless and impossible task. And yet, TO KNOW THE TITLE, a search must be made. A lawyer's fee for the time expended would be a prohibitive expense, and with the public records alone even the skilled lawyer would never know when his task was completed.

The result has been the imperative demand for the abstractor whose skill, experience and special training of an expert, with the marvelous aid of a "TRACT INDEX," has developed the "abstract of title."
